San Antonio, March 13 .- Application | tutionalists except through the United for the release of Mexican federal States. There ready to be filed in federal court here constitu constitutionalist sources that General Carranza's reply indicated he will give the United States the information detoday when lack of a judge to hear the petition caused H. R. Gamble of El Paso, representing the refugees, to sired, but exact details of his attitude are lacking.

The war department will resist to the utmost the release of the prisoners at this time on the ground of public policy. Aside from other questions involved, it is held that the community would be imperilled by the presence of several thousand homeless, unsheltered and unfed Mexicans. The actuation of the presence are military prisoners held.

Burns Claims Lack of Jurisdiction. United States Judge Maxcy of this district is in New Orleans on the circuit bench and Federal Judge Wal-ter Burns of the southern district of Texas when asked to hear the petition he ruled he was without jurisdiction, not having been formally designated Contention of Mexicans.

Contention of Mexicans.

According to a recent announcement by attorneys for the Mexicans, release of the prisoners will be asked under a contention that The Hagne treaty does not apply to this case. A section of this treaty provides that, when the forces of either of two nations at war enter a third country they shall be interned for the period of the conflict. Attorneys for the Mexicans declare that this does not cover a purely civil strife. It was intimated when the first announcement was made that the case would be carried to the United States supreme court if necessary.

POSE OF THEM.

Railroad Officials and Attorney-General Still at Variance-Disagree Also Over Terms of B. & M. Trustees.

Washington, March 13.-Success failure of the plan for a peaceful dis-solution of the New Haven railroad system hinged tonight largely on two propositions—the length of service of the trustees, who it is proposed shall take over the stock of the Boston and Maine railroad now owned by the New Haven, and the divorce or retention of the system's Connecticut trolley lines. the system's Connecticut trolley lines. After an all day conference between counsel for the New Haven and atterneys for the department, it became known tonight that no agreement had been reached on either proposition. The conferences will be resumed tomorrow, and it is possible that the muddle over the trolleys, at least, will be clarified to such an extent that a basis for comto such an extent that a basis for compromise will be reached. A Two Year Trusteeship. So far as the trusteeship for the Boston and Maine is concerned, the two sides to the conference were ad-mittedly so far apart that this question was not taken up at all during the day. The department was said tonight still to be insisting that the trustees shall serve not more than two years, while the New Haven held the position that such a term is too short, the present the Boston and Mains problem will be left to slumber, and the trolleys and steamship phase of the dissolution will be considered in detail.

If a compromise is found, it probably will be on a two year basis with right of a two year extension on approval by a court.

Banks Take Up New Haven's Cause. It was not believed here tonight that Attorney McReynolds would concede liberal terms, although agreement on the other parts of the dissolution plan may influence both sides in the Boston and Maine matter. Reports from New England tonight that many banks in that section have taken up the cudgels for the New Haven were received with interest at the department of justice. Several communications were received ed from banks suggesting that the de-partment might show more leniency in the Boston and Maine matter.

Claims Trolleys Are Feeders.

The difficulty today arose mainly over the Connecticut trolley holdings of the New Haven, although the separation of the steamshhip lines pre-sents its own troublesome problems. The New Haven has taken the position that its Connecticut trolleys are feed ers to the New Haven itself, and essential to its operation. On the other hand, the department of justice mainfains that these trolleys must be separated from the New Haven in order transportation.

Engagement Announced by President and Mrs. Wilson-The Prospective Groom 50 and Bride-to-Be 24.

Washington, March 13.—"The president and Mrs. Wilson announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eleanor Randolph, to Hon, William (Cibbs MAAAC)". Gibbs McAdoo,"

This announcement was issued at the White House by Secretary Tumul-ty tonight after a day of speculation in capital official and society the prospects for another White House wedding in June.

Fiancee is Father's Pet.

For weeks there have been rumors that the president's daughter and the secretary of the treasury would be married soon, and in the past day or two there has been no denial that an announcement could be expected. The exact date of the wedding is not known but it is generally believed known but it is generally believed that it will be some time in June. There has been extraordinary interthe est in the engagement among officials and the many friends which both Miss and the many friends which both Miss gites in the capital. The youngest of the family, Miss Eleanor is said to be her stees father's pet, and there is a strong persears, posing friendship between the president and the man who is to marry his daughter.

Will Be 14th White Haus Bride

Will Be 14th White House Bride. Reports that Secretary McAdeo would retire from the cabinet after his marriage and perhaps become ambas-sador to France were set at rest to-night by White House officials, who said emphatically that he was expected to remain at the head of the treasury department.

Miss Wilson will be the fourteenth
White House bride and the second of President Wilson's daughters to marry in the nation's executive mansion. Her sister, Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, became Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre in the east room on Nov. 25 last.

A Disparity in Ages.

Washington society has not been altogether unprepared for the news of the engagement, for the couple have been seen together at many a dance and social function. Though Secretary McAdoo is 50 years old and Miss Wilson is 24, intimate friends of the society said today he "is as young as a man of 30." He is fond of tennis and outdoor sports and played tennis often on the White House courts with Miss Wilson last spring and fall. Miss Wilson is athletic, a good horsewoman and delights in outdoor life. A Disparity in Ages.
